WEDNESDAY, May 23, 1750.

BASTIA, Jan. 29.

THE marquis de Burray, general of his most Christian majesty's forces in the island of Corsica, and Mr. de Guisard, commissary of war, have had within these few days several conferences with the chiefs, or leading men amongst the malecontents. And notwithstanding matters are kept so close, that 'tis impossible to give the public any perfect and determinate account of their proceedings; yet 'tis generally conjectured, that the contest which has subsisted between those islanders and the Genoese will soon be settled and adjusted to the satisfaction of both parties.

In the mean time, however, our connoisseurs seem fully perswaded, that the report, which has for some time been industriously spread all over Europe, that the island would be ceded to his royal highness the infant duke of Parma, is intirely false and groundless.

M. de Guisard is to embark directly on board one of the gallies belonging to the republic, in order to his return to Genoa as soon as possible, to make his report of the success which those conferences above mentioned have met with.

Naples, Feb. 16. The king and his royal consort, returned on the 8th inst. from Portici; after having spent near three weeks there in the royal diversion of hunting. Their majesties din'd at Portici, and in the evening went to the opera.

Yesterday there was a grand council held at the palace.

We are credibly informed, that fresh orders have been sent to all the captains of the several regiments to have their companies compleat by a day appointed; and that 'tis farther order'd, that every colonel shall deliver into the hands of the inspector general of his majesty's forces, an exact account of the state of their respective corps; as also an exact list of the several soldiers thereto belonging, &c.

'Tis generally conjectured, that there will soon be an augmentation of some thousand men to the present troops; tho' there is nothing absolutely determined as yet relating thereto.

The son of the prince de Troglia, died on Friday last of the small-pox, in the 20th year of his age, to the great grief of that prince, and all his illustrious family, as he was the only son.

Vienna, Feb. 21. The baron de Erasckenstein, minister plenipotentiary of the prince and bishop of Wurtsburg, received on the 17th inst. from the hands of his imperial majesty, with the customary ceremonies, the investiture of the temporalities of that bishoprick.

Tripoli, Nov. 29. Ali Effendi, the ambassador of our regency at the republic of the United Provinces, arrived at this port on the 16th instant, on board the Dolphin, a Dutch frigate, capt. Vander Does commander, and had his audience of the dey the next day, in order to make his report of the success he met with in regard to the commission with which he was intrusted.

That minister was not only lavish of his encomiums on the Dutch, and the polite reception that he had met with amongst them, during his residence at the Hague; but has given the dey and the regency such an exalted idea of the many amiable qualities of his sovereign the prince stadtholder, and of the extraordinary good conduct and oeconomy of the republic of Holland, that both the divan and the dey are determined to omit nothing that may any ways contribute towards a more solid union, and perfect harmony, if possible, than what at present subsists between our regency and that puissant republic.

Within these few days a vessel arrived in this port from Leghorn, the captain whereof has actually delivered into the hands of the dey the ratification of a treaty of peace, lately concluded between our regency and the grand duchy of Tuscany; with the agreeable addition of several very valuable and magnificent presents, on the part and behalf, and in the name of their Imperial majesties, with which the dey is so highly delighted, that he has determined to return, in a letter under his own hand, his grateful acknowlegements of their distinguish'd favour, by the same captain that brought them, who proposes to set sail for Italy as soon as conveniently may be.

Petersburg, Jan. 17. Her Russian majesty's journey for Czarkaizlo, is fix'd for one day next week, where our sovereign propose to reside for about a fortnight or three weeks.

The foreign ministers, that have followed the court from Moscow hither, have all of them had their audiences already of her Imperial majesty, except the two new ones from Great-Britain and Sweden; neither of which will, as we are credibly informed, open their commissions till her majesty's return from Czarkaizlo.

Genoa, Jan. 20. The two men of war, which this government had lately fitted out for giving chace to th corsair of Tunis, who has committed so many flagrant outrages in the channel of Piombino, are returned within these few days into port, without being able to get sight of that audacious rover, or any other belonging to that nest of thieves.

By advices lately received from Leghorn, we learn, that a French vessel, that had sailed from Smyrna was arrived in the port of Algiers, with three hundred Turkish soldiers, whom the grand signior had caused to be transported thither to the dey, with an absolute promise of more considerable reinforcements, if occasion should require, and the Christian powers should make any motions towards a descent on that city, or on any other part of their dominions.

By the same advices, we are farther inform'd, that the treaty of peace between the king of the Two Sicilies, and regencies of Tunis and Tripoli, being broke off, the latter have fitted out a considerable number of corsairs, in order to go a cruising on the coasts of the kingdom of Naples.

Turin, Jan. 24. According to the last dispatches which have been receiv'd here from the chevalier d'Oforio, his majesty's minister at the court of Madrid, we are assur'd, that the infanta Maria Antonietta will set out from that city on the last day of march next, and that she will travel all the way by land.

His Sardinian majesty, we hear, will forthwith nominate such noblemen and ladies as he shall think proper, to meet that princess as far as Perpignan; and we are farther assur'd, that his majesty accompanied by his highness the duke his son, will go before, as far as the frontiers of the duke of Savoy.

Paris, Feb. 2. The king who went on Thursday last to Trianon, returned yesterday to Versailles, in order to hold today a chapter of the Order of the Holy Ghost. We learn from Calais, that the packet boat, which sailed last week from England, was wreck'd upon the coast, but that all the crew and passengers sav'd themselves, except the capt. M. Savage, who was drowned in endeavouring to swim to shore.

Paris à la main, Feb. 16. It is currently reported, that our French cavalry will for the future be dress all in blue; and that an arret, or ordinance will forthwith be issued out for that purpose; and in order that the regiments may assume that uniform dress, with the greater ease, one third part thereof will be cloathed first; and the other two thirds, as soon as conveniently may be, one after the other.

'Tis generally conjectured likewise, that there will be a diminution of six million in the Talleys.

Tho' according to the present list of our marine, there are actually threescore men of war already in the several ports of Brest, Rochelle, Rochefort, Toulon, and Marseilles; yet 'tis currently currently reported, that twenty more, in order to make their number fourſcore, will be erected with all convenient ſpeed.

As 'tis taken here almoſt for granted, that the war is on point of breaking out in Italy, France propoſes to ſupply the king of the Two Sicilies with 40,000 men, as auxiliary troops; and we are credibly informed, that the king of Sardinia will give them a free paſſage thro' his territories.

Genoa, March 2. On Tueſday laſt an Engliſh veſſel arrived at Algiers; the return whereof is waited for with the utmoſt impatience.

It came from Lisbon and Cadiz; and its cargo conſiſts of a large quantity of divers ſorts of rich effects for and on the account of ſeveral merchants belonging to this city, beſides 90000 Portugal peices.

The carnival having interrupted, in ſome meaſures, the courſe of public affairs, the government have began again to take them into their ſerious conſideration.

'Tis generally conjectured, that there will be an election of a doge by the 6th of April next.

There are four or five candidates on the liſt, who are under ſome pain for fear that high poſt ſhould fall to their lot, as 'tis not only very laborious, but very expenſive.

LONDON.

At a court martial held on board his majeſty's yacht the Charlotte, at Deptford, on the 11*th*, 12*th*, 13*th*, 14*th*, 15*th*, 16*th*, 18*th*, 19*th*, and 20*th days of* December, 1749.

The court, purſuant to an order from the hon. the lords of the admiralty, to Wm. Rowley, Eſq; (dated the firſt inſtant) proceeded to enquire into the conduct and behaviour of Charles Knowles, Eſq; a rear admiral of his majeſty's fleet, in, and relating to an action which happened on the 1ſt of October, 1748, between a Britiſh ſquadron under his command, and a ſquadron of Spain; and having heard the witneſſes, as well for the crown as the priſoner, and alſo what the priſoner had to ſay in his defence, and thoroughly conſidered the ſame, the court do unanimouſly agree, that it had appear'd that Mr. Knowles by forming the line to the Northward, upon ſeeing the enemy in the morning, acted properly, and like an officer; but while he was ſtanding for the enemy, he might, by a different diſpoſition of his ſquadron, have begun the attack with ſix ſhips, as early in the day, as four of them were engaged; and that therefore, by his neglect to do ſo, he gave the enemy a manifeſt advantage; but in the ſituation the ſquadron was at the time the Tilbury returned the enemy's fire, the rear admiral ſeems to have acted properly in making the ſignal for battle, and beginning the engagement then as he did; that it appears the Cornwall continued in cloſe and ſmart action better than an hour, and that Mr. Knowles remained on board her, with his flag, after ſhe was diſabled from continuing the action, tho' he might have (upon her being diſabled,) ſhifted the flag on board another ſhip; and the court are unanimouſly of opinion, that he ought to have done ſo, in order to have conducted and directed, during the whole action, the motions of the ſquadron entruſted to his care and conduct; but as it appears that Mr. Knowles, expreſs'd great earneſtneſs and zeal to get into action, and while the Cornwall was engaged, ſhewed great perſonal courage, therefore the court do unanimouſly think, that his not removing his flag aroſe from a miſtake, and not from backwardneſs to bring his perſon into action; and upon conſideration of Mr. Knowles's whole conduct relating to the action, the court do unanimouſly agree, that he falls under part of the 14th article of war, namely, the word negligence, and no other, and alſo under the 23d article. And the court do therefore unanimouſly adjudge, that he be reprimanded, for not bringing up the ſquadron in cloſer order than he did, and not beginning the attack with as great force as he might have done, and alſo for not ſhifting his flag, upon the Cornwall's being diſabled. And he is hereby reprimanded accordingly.

At a court martial held on board his majeſty's yacht the Charlotte on the 15*th*, 16*th*, 17*th*, and 18*th of* Jan. 1749. Wm. Rowley, Eſq; Rear Admiral preſident.

The court, in purſuance of an order from the hon. the lords of the admiralty to Wm. Rowley, Eſq; (dated the firſt of laſt month) proceeded to enquire into the conduct and behaviour of Capt. Charles Holmes, upon a charge exhibited againſt him by rear admiral Knowles for bad conduct, breach of orders, diſobedience to ſignals, and not doing his utmoſt to take and endamage a Spaniſh ſquadron in an action off the Havanna, in 1748; and having heard the witneſſes produced both by Mr. Knowles and the priſoner, and thoroughly conſidered their evidence, the court do unanimouſly agree, that it hath appeared Capt. Holmes behaved like a good and gallant officer during the whole action; that he likewiſe ſhew'd very good conduct for the preſervation of his convoy when he fell in with the Spaniſh ſquadron, a day or two before the action, and alſo great zeal for his king and country, in quitting his homeward courſe to go in queſt of rear admiral Knowles, in order to inform him of that ſquadron, and to ſtrengthen him with the addition of his ſhip, the better to enable him to engage them, when he had at the ſame time not only a large part of his own fortune on board the ſhip, but was preſſed by the paſſengers to proceed directly home. The court do therefore unanimouſly agree to acquit Capt. Holmes with honour, of every part of the charge exhibited againſt him, and he is accordingly hereby honourably acquitted. Signed by all.

Capt. Poulett was alſo honourably acquitted.

A copy of a letter, dated Nov. 30, 1749, from Geo. Hick, late a blackſmith of York, who went over to Nova-Scotia laſt ſpring.

My dear and loving wife,

" This being the fourth letter I have ſent you, and I hope that they all found you in good health as I am at preſent, and in a very good ſtate of life, and liveth very well, but could be glad you would come over, where you'd live better than ever you did in old England: A country well fortified with batteries and cannon, well ſupplied with wood and water; plenty of ſalt proviſions and freſh meat, and fiſh of all ſorts; and where there is plenty of work, and good wages, and every common labourer that is willing to work in the ſummer time, will earn 2*s*. 6*d*. a day, and a tradeſman 5*s*. a day. I being ſet up for myſelf, keeps a man at work with me, and pays him 7*s*. 6*d*. a week from Martinmas till Candlemas. I ſell rum by quart, and in ſmaller quantities. I buy it at 3*s*. a gallon, and lay out two guineas a week in it, by which I find I get money very faſt; I am this day worth 30*l*. in caſh and goods, but my lot of fifty acres will not be ſet out till the ſpring. My dear, I live as well as man can deſire, I want for no money nor cloaths, I want for no victuals nor drink, nor lodging; I want for nothing but you and my dear children, and ſhould be very glad that you would come in the fleet, the next ſpring, in the year 50; you ſhall be kindly welcome to enjoy my proſperous labour, as you may live an eaſy life, without labour to toil yourſelf. Pray if you can, ſend a letter before you come; direct your letter for Halifax in Nova Scotia.

I am your loving huſband G. Hick.

BOSTON, April 9.

Extract of a Letter from Cadiz, to a Gentleman in this Town, dated Feb. 25. 1750.

" Feb. 16. Laſt night, or rather evening, a very raſh action was committed here by a young Spaniſh officer, in ſetting the ſoldiers againſt the boat's crew of the Nightingale " man of war, Capt. Arbuthnot, and proceeding to take the " Captain, and a gentleman that was going on board with " him, out of the boat, and beating the ſailors.——The Spaniſh officer took care to be in the wrong in every particular.—He caus'd the king's colours to be ſtruck, the arm " cheſt to be open'd and the arms brought on ſhore. As ſoon " as I got to the Mould the governor ordered the Captain to " be releas'd, and every thing to be diſpos'd as I ſhould de- " fire. I thought it proper to conduct the Captain to my " houſe, but to leave the ſpoil to the captors. We are now " buſy in taking depoſitions, to ſend by an expreſs to Mr. " Keene, to make complaint directly to the king of Spain, it " being of too high a nature to be decided here.

ANNAPOLIS.

We are inform'd, that the Gust which we had here on Tuesday last Week, was much more violent in several other Parts of the Province, particularly in Baltimore County; at North-Point it tore away almost every thing in it's way, above 50 Apple Trees in one Orchard were intirely destroy'd, five Houses, (out of seven) blown down, and the Things which were in them blown into the Bay, not a Fowl left, and scarce a Timber-Tree escap'd it's almost irresistible Force; but we do not hear of any Person kill'd. A Sloop belonging to Capt. Travers, being then at Anchor in Patapsco, was turn'd bottom upwards, and her Mast stuck 8 Feet in the Mud, but the People happily sav'd: The violence of this Hurricane or Whirlwind, reach'd about half a Mile in Width, and has done vast Damage in other Places.

Yesterday Capt. James Hall, in the Ship Betsy, arrived from London, at London-Town, after a Passage of near seven Weeks. We have not yet got any of his late Papers. He brings word of the safe Arrival of Capt. Coolidge: No News of Capt. Bentley, who is supposed to be lost: Capt. Isaac Johns was to sail immediately after him for South-River, being clear'd at the Custom House before he came away; and Capt. Biggs (for Patapsco) was to sail by the 16th of April.

Whoever secures him, so as the Subscriber may have him again, shall have Five Pistoles Reward.

DAVID ROSS.

Note, He is a sly palavering Fellow, and, if not well secur'd, will endeavour to escape.

Cecil County, May 7, 1750.

RAN away last Night from the Subscriber (in Company with a Servant Lad of Dr. Bradford's), a short Convict Fellow, about 21 Years old, named Jacob Parrot, born in the West of England, as may be perceiv'd by his Speech; he has been a Footman, and is full of Talk and awkward Cringes: He took with him a greyish Kersey Jacket with Brass Buttons, a reddish Serge ditto lined with Linnen, two Pair of Osnabrigs Petticoat Trowsers, two Osnabrigs Shirts, a Dowlass ditto, old Thread Stockings, a Pair of Shoes with Brass Buckles, and a new Felt Hat: He lately wore his own short lightish brown Hair, which he sometimes curls, but perhaps may have cut it off. He pretends to be a Barber, a Sawyer, and Shoemaker, and has lately cut his left Thumb with an Axe.

Dr. Bradford's Lad, named James Jones, was born in Ireland, aged about 16 or 17; and took with him an old blue Cloth Coat, a white Kersey ditto, a strip'd Linsey Jacket, brown Breeches, Yarn Stockings, two Holland Shirts and two Caps of the Doctor's, two Dollars, some dry'd Beef and Bacon, and some Rum; his Hair lately cut off.

Whoever takes up the said Servants, or either of them (above ten Miles from home), so as their Masters may have them again, shall have Twenty Shillings for each, more than the Law allows, paid by me,

HUGH JONES.

May 9. 1750.
